The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 20 and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Eischner (E), of record.

The previous rejection still applies. There are no magnitudes of conductivity claimed to distinguish applicant's "conductive polymer" over Eischner's. All materials have a "conductivity" or equivalently a "resistivity". Applicant's broad recitation does not structurally distinguish over the applied art. Moreover, the nanoparticle dispersion in the polyvinyl alcohol polymer (Moviol 8-88) clearly has conductivity (from column 8 lines 14-25) because the polymer without the nanoparticles has such low conductivity no current or luminescence is observed.

Note other polymers and nanoparticles are disclosed in the claims and especially column 2 (polyvinyl pyrrolidone, alumina, SnO₂, etc). Moreover, claim 40 is rejected as the polymer contains an acid component and therefore can be broadly labeled an acid/base salt. There is no particular acid/base salt claimed to unequivocally distinguish over E.

Applicant's arguments filed 6/3/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The arguments have been addressed above. In addition, it is noted applicant's "conductive polymer" for the first embodiment seeks to reduce the conductivity of the device (rather than increase it) to avoid crosstalk. In any event, as stated above, there is no magnitude of "conductivity" claimed to unequivocally distinguish over the applied art.

In regard to the “acid/base salt”, as stated above, there is no particular acid/base salt claimed to structurally distinguish over the acid/base salt polymer material disclosed in E.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
